DEDICATION . . .

The 1973-74 edition of Caps and Capes is dedicated to the students of Charity Hospital School of Nursing, a student body united in a common goal to become a professional nurse.

No one deserves more recognition than you who have struggled through long hours of study, care plans and history forms; taken the bus in the early morning hours from Charity Hospital School of Nursing to University of New Orleans; struggled to find parking places around the school; worked in Charity's Emergency Room; used sheets for towels and pillowcases for washcloths to care for patients; and withstood five tests in one week.

All of this has been done in your quest of this goal and so often it seemed like an impossible dream.

So to all the students of C.H.S.N. . . . this book is about you and for you.

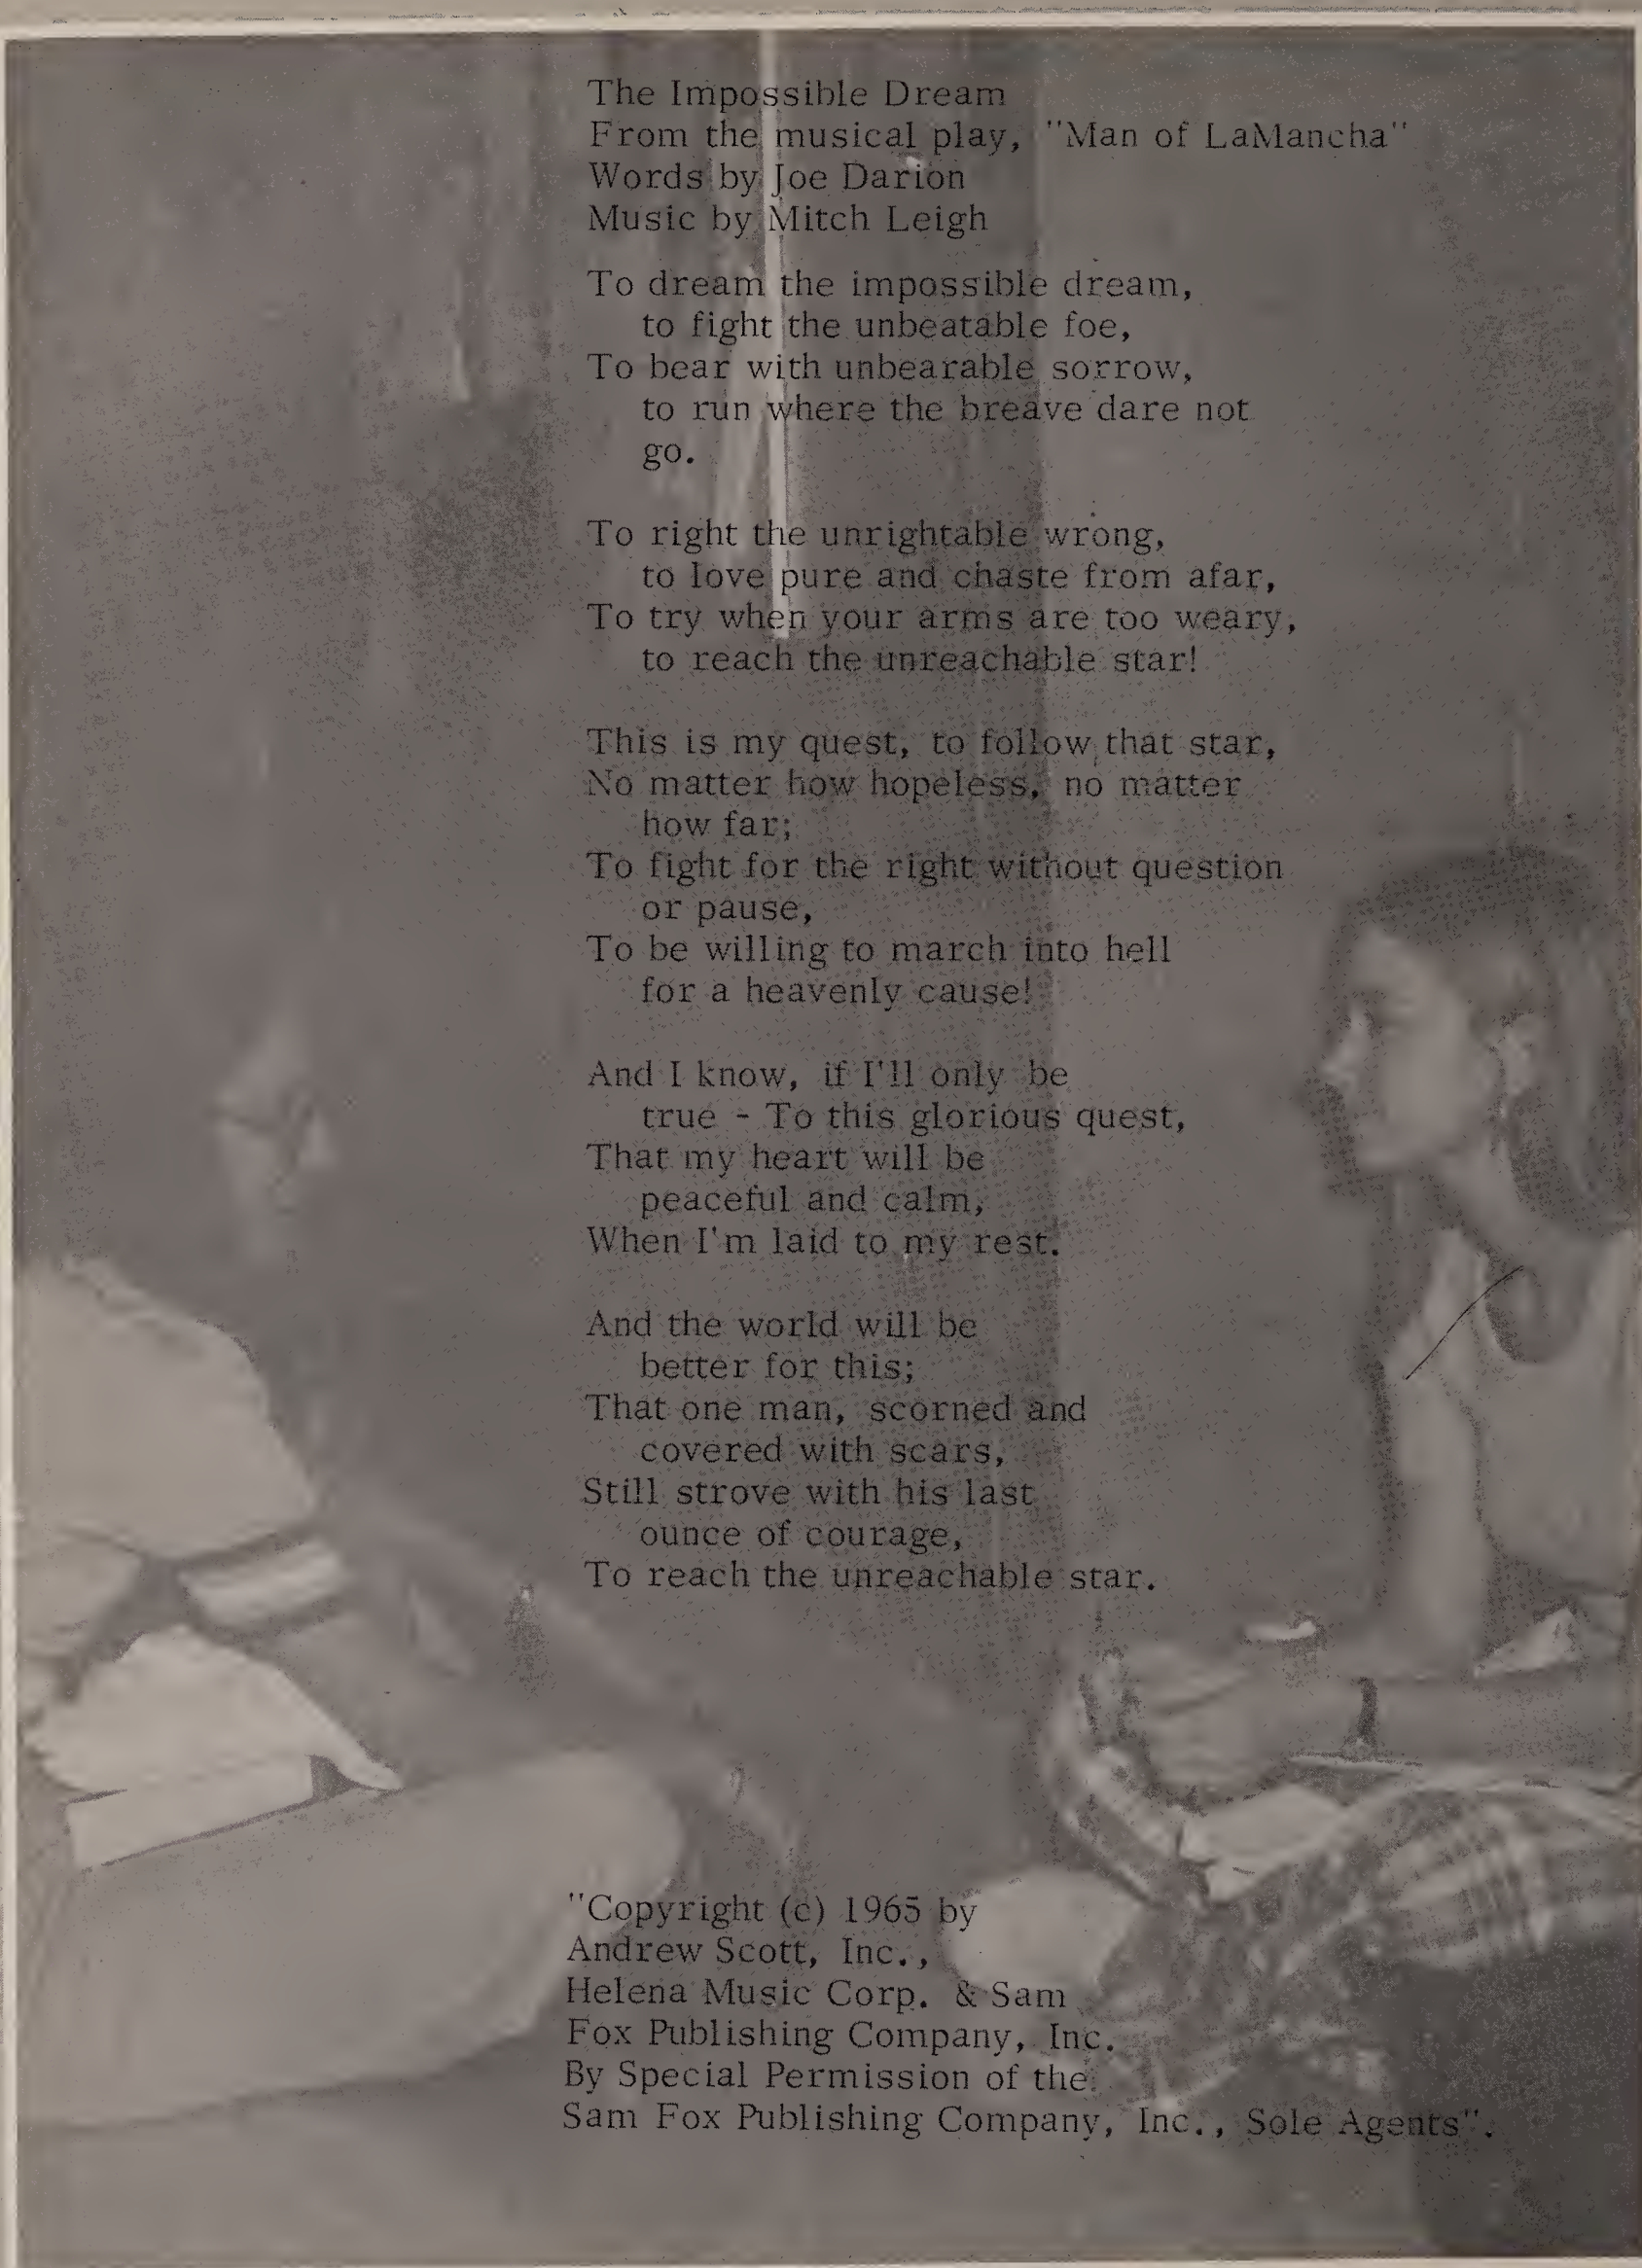

Caps and Capes Staff
1973-1974

THE STUDENTS . . .

The Impossible Dream
From the musical play, "Man of LaMancha"
Words by Joe Darion
Music by Mitch Leigh

To dream the impossible dream,
to fight the unbeatable foe,
To bear with unbearable sorrow,
to run where the brave dare not go.

To right the unrightable wrong,
to love pure and chaste from afar,
To try when your arms are too weary,
to reach the unreachable star!

This is my quest, to follow that star,
No matter how hopeless, no matter
how far;
To fight for the right without question
or pause,
To be willing to march into hell
for a heavenly cause!

And I know, if I'll only be true - To this glorious quest,
That my heart will be
peaceful and calm,
When I'm laid to my rest.

And the world will be better for this;
That one man, scorned and
covered with scars,
Still strove with his last
ounce of courage,
To reach the unreachable star.

SENIOR MEDICAL-

Medical surgical nursing provides the senior student with the opportunity to care for adult patients with multiple problems.

The clinical areas used for nursing experience include orthopedics, medical and cardiac intensive care units, and general medical units.

SURGICAL NURSING

Using a team nursing approach, nursing care is planned and implemented for individual patients and groups of patients. In the team nursing approach an important aspect is establishing effective relationships with patients, families, and other members of the health team.

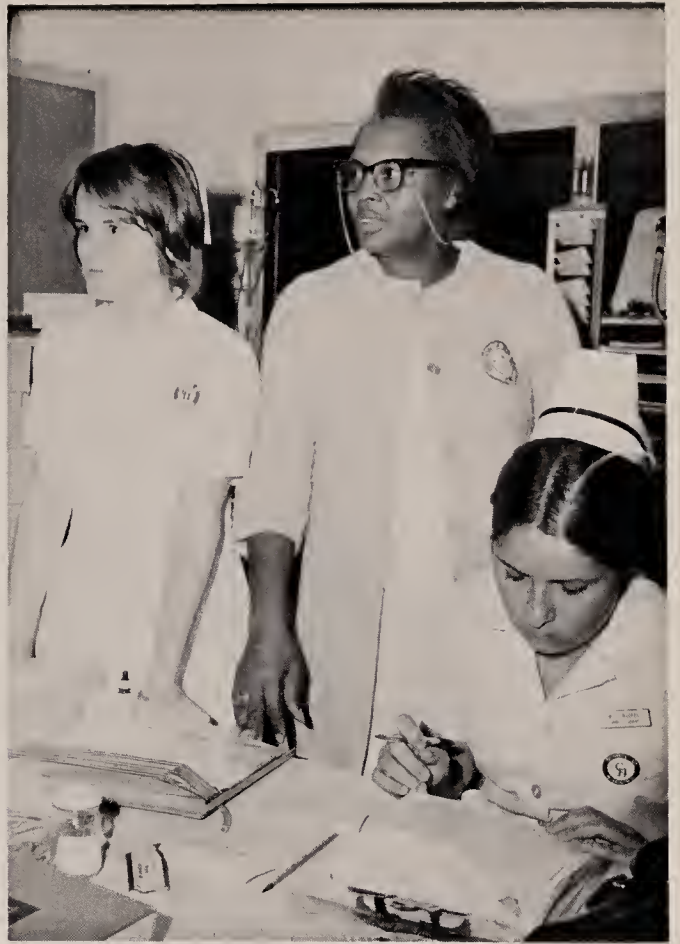

SURGICAL

Surgical Nursing II offers the student concurrent theory and nursing experience in the care of the adult patient with complex surgical problems. The clinical areas used are the general surgery wards, genitourinary wards, SICU, CCU, and the Burn Unit.

NURSING II

NURSING OF

Nursing of Children offers the student a comprehensive picture of the child and his health problems from birth through adolescence, and nurse-child-parent situations as encountered by the student. Emphasis is placed on the importance of identifying and understanding growth and development, prevention, treatment and rehabilitation needs at each specific age level. Nursing experience is provided on the medical and surgical services of both infants and juveniles, and in the area of communicable diseases in children of all ages. Observational experience in PICU, pediatric emergency room, child development center and field trips to agencies concerned with child health problems are also integrated.

CHILDREN

COMMUNITY

Community health nursing gives the senior student of nursing an understanding of the physical and emotional needs of the non-hospitalized person and his family in our multicultural and multiracial society by increasing the nursing knowledge and skills needed to meet these health needs through the use of community health resources.

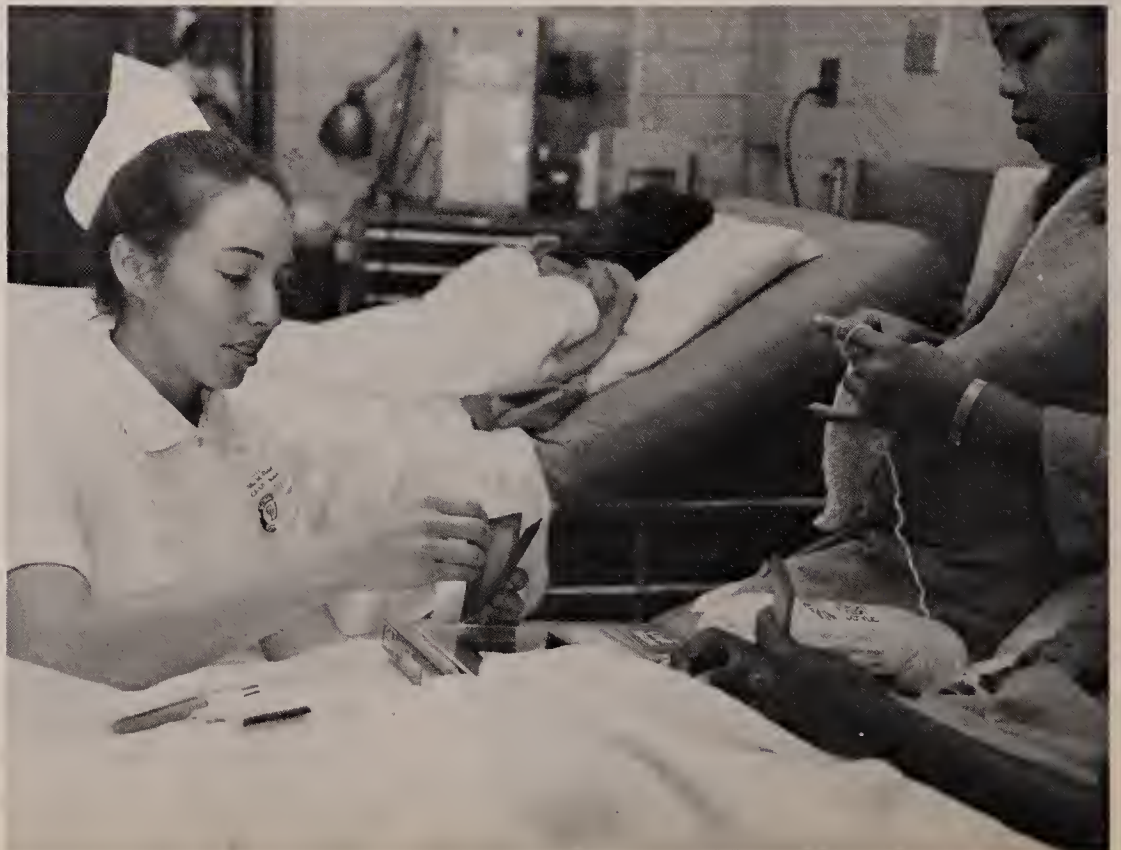

NURSING

Nursing experience is provided in a variety of community settings. Some of these are the community mental health center, a nursing home, outpatient clinics for ambulatory patients, a parish public health center, a hospital unit that deals strictly with rehabilitation of the totally or partially handicapped person and the emergency rooms, both medical acute and surgical trauma.

JUNIOR GENERAL

General Medical Nursing presents many aspects of care with emphasis on the care of the total patient, composed by all of his needs. Some of these needs are physiological, cultural, spiritual, psychological, diversional, and social. The nursing goal is to meet these needs or to help the person to meet them himself.

MEDICAL NURSING

The duties of a general medical nurse are many and present a challenge for the student with a quest for knowledge. The specialized skills of observation, assessment, assimilation, and action as well as actual experiences are acquired here. These skills will provide a solid foundation for still greater challenges to come.

Surgical nursing offers concurrent theory and nursing experience in the care of the patient during the pre-operative, operative and post-operative phases of the surgical cycle. The student is assisted in acquiring knowledge of fundamental, physical and psychological needs of the patient. The student will plan and initiate nursing measures based on observation, scientific principles, and priority needs of the surgical patient. The areas of experience are the operating room, where the student learns the skills of the scrub nurse, circulator, recovery room and general surgery wards.

SURGICAL

NURSING I

Psychiatric nursing offers concurrent theory and nursing experience in the area of psychiatry. The role of the nurse in establishing therapeutic nurse-patient relationships is the major focus of the course, with emphasis on understanding behavior, both normal and disturbed. The one-to-one nurse-patient relationships and group activities are an integral part of psychiatric nursing.

PSYCHIA TRIC

NURSING

MATERNITY AND

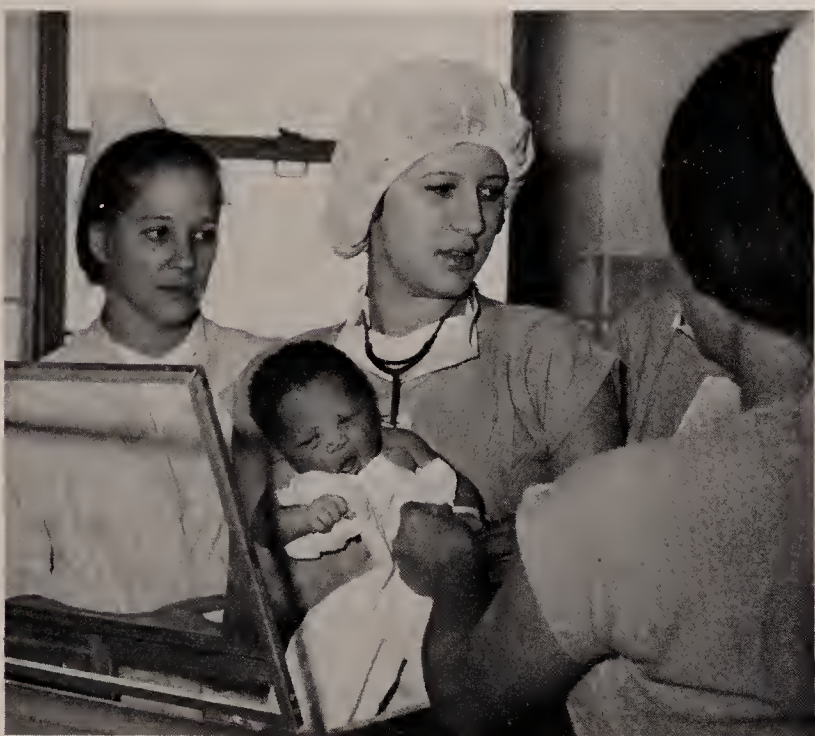

Students learn to further expand their professional knowledge by caring for maternity patients. Maternity nursing presents a challenge every nursing student learns to value. The expectant mother is followed in all areas of her care. These are namely ante-partal care at family planning clinic, the delivery unit, and the post partal wards. All are vital experiences to the students desiring to give comprehensive care to the maternity patient.

A child is born . . .

The nursing student begins learning the skills necessary to care for the normal newborn as well as the premature infant requiring intensive care. The first days of the neonates life are the most important days he will live. The skilled observation and care of these newborns have prepared students to be not only good nurses but, perhaps, better mothers as well.

NEWBORN NURSING

THE WONDERS OF

A NEWBORN

INTRODUCTION TO NURSING

Introduction to nursing is the course in which the beginning freshmen learn the fundamentals of nursing by becoming acquainted with techniques and procedures involved in caring for the patient, as well as learning to communicate and interact with the patient as a unique individual.

THE BEGINNING OF A DREAM

A SPECIAL WAY TO SAY IT, A CERTAIN WAY TO DO IT

We sometimes wonder what we are doing here and where it all started. It's instructors like Miss Gernhauser, History of Nursing Instructor, that try to answer that question.

History of Nursing is a brief scanning of nursing from the beginning of the profession to the present day. The course attempts to give students a general background of nursing as it was in the past, compared to what it is today, showing how techniques and procedures have developed from the first nurse, Florence Nightengale. It points to the fact that nursing is an ever changing profession and that though our technique may be much better than that of Florence Nightengale, we must always be open to new and better methods.

REMEMBRANCES OF '60's AND '70's

LEISURE TIME??

As soon as the rush is over, we are going to have a nervous breakdown. We worked for it; We owe it to ourselves; and nobody is going to deprive us of it.

IF YOU CAN FIND THE TIME!

The Possible Dream?

Whether a freshman at the threshold, a junior over the hill or a senior with all of this behind, we all face the future. We face that unpredictable tomorrow with its possibilities, hope, successes and failures, but most of all its hope.

It will be difficult to go out into the world. It is hard to suddenly be faced with and held responsible for injustices, illness, poverty, hatreds people have for one another, the dread of wars, unstable todays and uncertain tomorrows.

We cannot expect our parents to hand us a Utopia; neither can we expect to build one ourselves unless we are willing to risk being defeated by giving all or part of what we have, on just one slight hope that we can and will succeed.

Now it's our turn . . .

Will we choose to say "Well, that's the way it's always been done."?

Will we let the other guy do all the work?

Will we close our eyes to the injustices all around us?

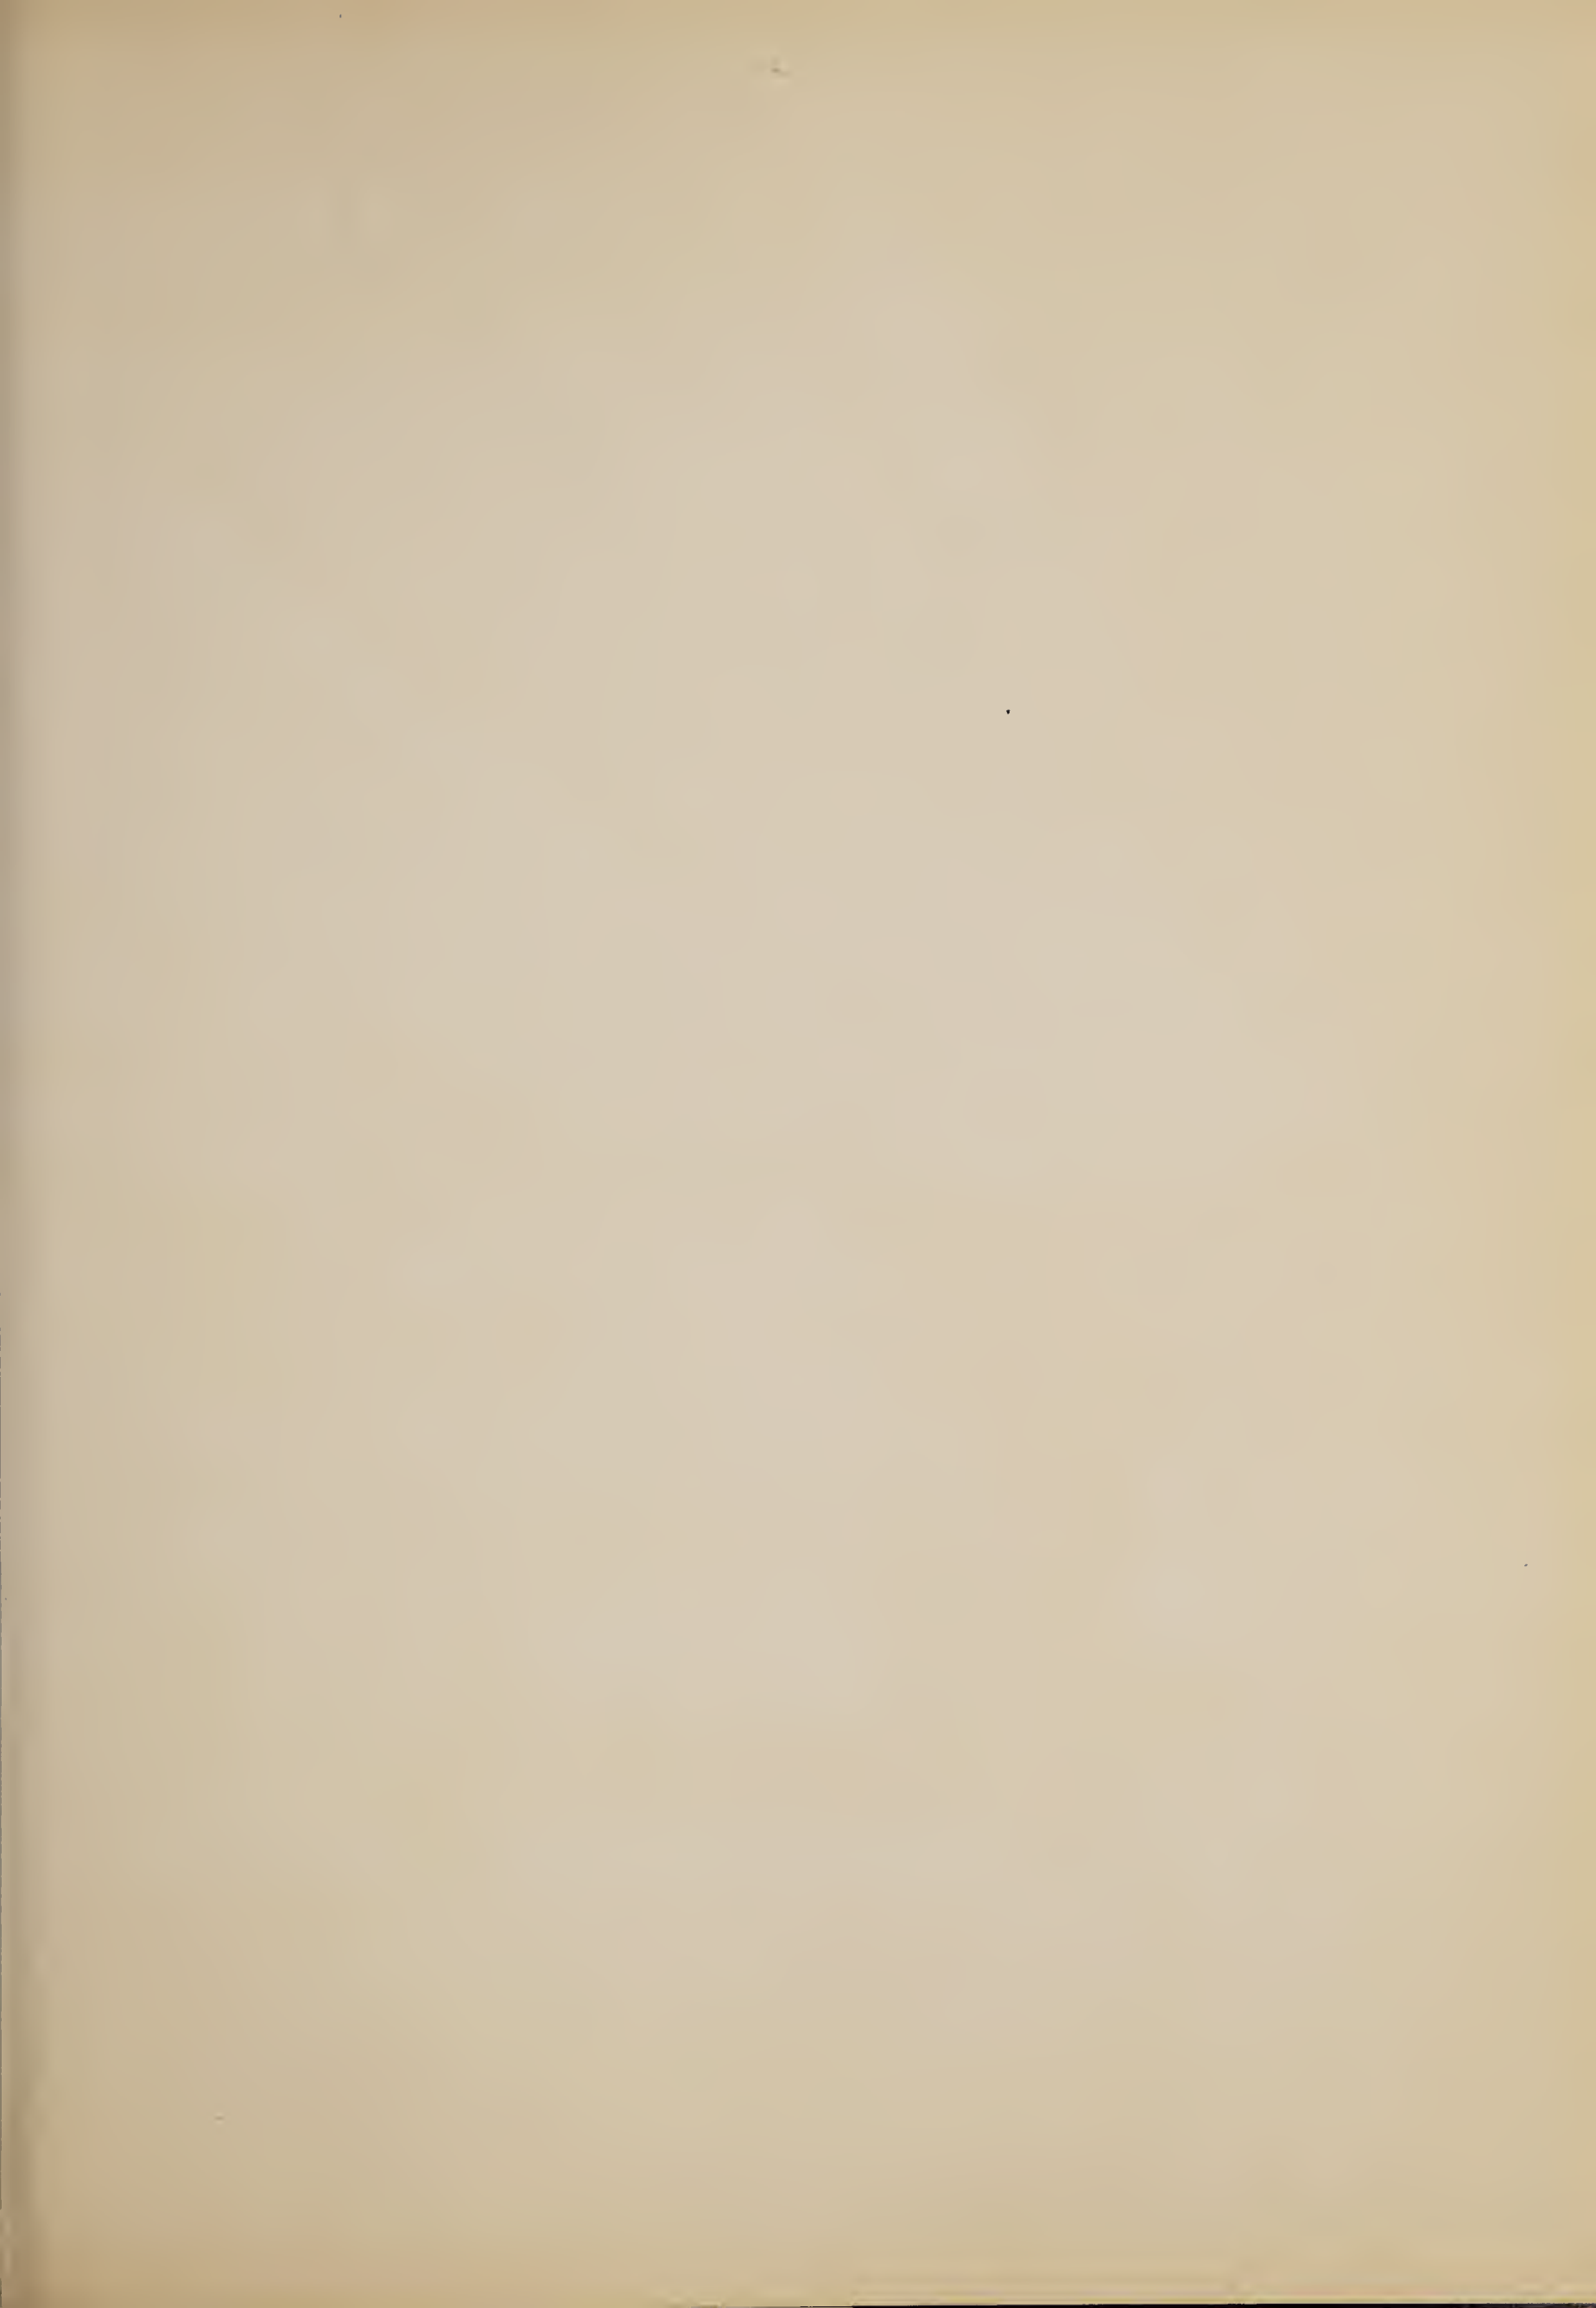

I think not. We all have the potential to not only see the problem but to take action and and try to solve it. The ultimate answers are yours.
